

For the prevention and cure of BILIOUS AND MALIGNANT FEVERS, is recommended
HAHN'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS.
THIS Medicine has been attended with a degree of success highly grateful to the inventor's feelings, in several parts of the West Indies and in the Southern and Middle States, &c.

The testimony of a number of persons can be adduced, who have reason to believe that a timely use of this salutary remedy has, under Providence, preserved their lives when in the most alarming circumstances.

Facts of this conclusive nature speak more in favour of a medicine than columns of pompous eulogy founded on mere assertion.

It is not indeed presumptuously proposed as an infallible cure, but the inventor has every possible reason that can result from extensive experience for believing that a dose of these Pills taken once in every two weeks during the prevalence of our bilious fevers, will prove an infallible preventive; and further that in the earlier stages of those diseases their use will very generally succeed in restoring health, and frequently in case esteemed desperate and beyond the power of common remedies.

The operation of these pills is perfectly mild, so as to be used with safety by persons in every situation and of every age.

They are excellently adapted to carry off superfluous bile and prevent its morbid secretions—to restore and amend the appetite—to produce a free perspiration and thereby prevent colds which are often of fatal consequences. A dose never fails to remove a cold if taken on its first appearance: they are celebrated for removing habitual costiveness—necessity at the stomach and severe head-ache—and ought to be taken by all persons on a change of climate.

They have been found remarkably efficacious in preventing and curing disorders attendant on long voyages, and should be procured and carefully preserved for use by every seaman.

Hamilton's Elixir.
A sovereign remedy for colds, obstructions, asthma, sore throats, catarrhs, and approaching consumptions.— To parents who have children afflicted with the HOOPING COUGH, this disorder is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorders to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Hamilton's Grand Restorative.
Is recommended as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief and permanent cure of Nervous Disorders.— Violent cramps in the stomach and Lowness of spirits in the back.—
Loss of appetite Indigestion.—
Impurity of blood Melancholy.—
Hysteric affection Gout in the stomach Inward weaknesses Pains in the limbs and debility Relaxations, etc.

Hamilton's Essence and Extract of Mustard.
A safe and effectual remedy for acute and chronic rheumatism, gout, rheumatic gout, palsy, lumbago, numbness, white swellings, chilblains, sprains, bruises, pain in the face and neck, etc. etc.

Lee's Ointment for the Itch.
Warranted an infallible remedy at one application, may be used with perfect safety by pregnant women, or on infants a week old, not containing a particle of mercury or any dangerous ingredient whatever, and not accompanied with that tormenting smart which attends the application of other remedies.

Hahn's true & genuine German Corn Plaster.

An infallible remedy for corns, speedily removing them root and branch, without causing any pain.

The Genuine Persian Lotion.
So celebrated among the fashionable throughout Europe, is an invaluable cosmetic, perfectly innocent and safe, free from corrosive and repellent minerals, the basis of other lotions, and of unparalleled efficacy in removing blemishes of the face and skin, freckles, pimples, inflammatory redness, scurfs, tetter, ringworms, sunburns, prickly heat, &c.

Hahn's genuine Eye Water.
A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes, whether the effect of nature weakness, or of accident.

Tooth Ache Drops.
The only remedy yet discovered which gives immediate and lasting relief in the most severe instances.

Lee's Infallible Ague and Fever Drops.
For the cure of agues, remittent and intermittent fevers.

At the place of sale pamphlets may be had gratis, describing cures performed by the above medicines; the number, importance and respectability of which, fully justify every article of this

INDIAN WAR IN THE SOUTH.
Copy of a letter from C. CASSADY, Esq. to a gentleman in this city, politely communicated for the Mercantile Advertiser, dated Cragfont, Tennessee, April 29, 1818.

We have no official accounts as yet, respecting the movements or fate of the southern army, under the command of old Mars: and I feel some apprehension of considerable difficulty being experienced in the final reduction of the Seminole Indian. These apprehensions are founded on intelligence, that flour is 50 dollars per barrel at head-quarters, as well as that those Indians are determined never to hazard a conclusive battle with general Jackson. It appears to be their determination to persist in perpetrating robberies and murders, in small detachments, against which, owing to the facility with which they can move from place to place, it appears to me that nothing but cavalry can be effective. In addition, they are perfectly acquainted with the fastnesses of the country which must finally be the seat of war. A country which, I am informed, having never been as far south, is characterised in numerous instances, by almost impassable mazes, as well as by rugged and sterile mountains. That they must eventually be overcome there can be no doubt; and from my knowledge of the man with whom they have to contend, every thing that prudence, foresight, desperate courage and military skill can achieve, will be effected in the shortest possible time.—

War is always to be deprecated as a dreadful calamity, both to the victors and the vanquished; but in this particular instance it seems to be absolutely necessary; for, scarcely a week elapses which does not bring us information of the conflagration of some dwelling, and the butchery of its defenceless inhabitants by these deluded and miserable beings—I say deluded, because it is ascertained that there are a number of foreigners among them—among whom no doubt, are the famous, or rather infamous capt. Nichols and Woodbine. Whether these miscreants are in the pay of some European government, grown old in political iniquity and sanguinary outrage, or whether they are villains under assumed names, at their own suggestion, time alone can determine; but whether the former or the latter, we trust that eternal justice will single out the real instigators of this war, and again make the arm of the U. States instrumental to the overthrow of the disturbers of our domestic and national happiness.

Were I to hazard a conjecture as to the policy which will be pursued by the commander in chief, both as respects provisioning his army and finally defeating the enemy, I would say, that he will open the navigation of the Apalachicola river through the Spanish dominions, to the Gulf of Mexico, notwithstanding any protest against such a measure by the Spanish authorities, or any military force that may be marshalled to oppose him.—This movement appears to be absolutely necessary, because of the difficulty and danger of supplying his troops by land from the populated parts of the state of Georgia. After furnishing his army from New Orleans, he may probably, if no alternative presents itself, possess himself of East Florida, for the double purpose of being adjacent to the fountain from which he must draw supplies—and of being enabled to cut off the resources with which the Spaniards have uniformly supplied the Indians, and do now no doubt afford them. Thus, by passing into their rear, and make East Florida a permanent station for the main body of his army, he will be enabled to silence their advisers, to close every avenue through which they can obtain further accession of foreign troops or munitions of war—bring them to terms of peace and submission, without further bloodshed—or cut them up in detail. The pursuance of such a policy can be productive of no serious consequences to the government, should even an executive sanction be extended to it. Independently of the right to a temporary possession of East Florida, founded on a breach of treaty on the part of old Spain; and, throwing out of consideration every immunity derivable from a violation, on her part, of the conventional law of nations, how far would not the government be warranted in making that possession eternal, under the natural law of nations, taking into consideration the conduct of the Spanish government from the period of the commencement of the late war until this time?

1st. In the year 1814, there were landed from the best information, within the Spanish province of East Florida, twenty two thousand stand of arms, and three hundred barrels of fixed ammunition, intended for the Creek Indians. Some of these arms bore the tower hill stamp—were new, and were brought into the American camp.

2d. When general Jackson invaded Pensacola, the fort called 'Barrancas,' was garrisoned by English troops, who on his advance, evacuated and blew it up, under an apprehension that he would take it by storm, and then turn the guns on their ships of war which lay in the harbor.

3. It is very possible, and I imagine that Gonzales Manrique, who was at that period governor of Pensacola, previous to this invasion, avowed in a written communication, that he would supply the Creek Indians with every thing in his power. Whether this letter was the production of English policy operating on Spanish stupidity; or whether it was the offspring of a mercantile house in Pensacola; or whether it was the impotent ultimation of an infatuated adherent to pusillanimous royalty, cannot well be determined—but in any event, the neutrality of this province was violated, against the interest of the United States, without even a protest against it on the part of Spain—and, without even a communication of the fact to the officer commanding the 7th military district.

4th. How far the same spirit of covert hostility to the United States has been evinced from the same source, since the commencement of the late 'affair,' will probably be made the subject of a future communication in proper time.

5th. Taking into consideration the debt which Spain has incurred for speculations on our commerce during the late convulsions, about five millions of dollars, combined with the foregoing enumeration of facts, how far, sir, would not the United States be justified in taking and holding East Florida?

With respect, I am
Your most obed't servant,
CHARLES CASSADY.

* She is bound to rest in the Indians within her limits—and, there is surely more political temptation in affording them directions and supplies for offensive operations against us.

CONSULATE UNITED STATES,
St. Pierre, (Mort.) May 1.

Sir—I had the pleasure, per a French ketch bound for your city, to enclose you a Gazette, containing a proclamation of the governor of St. Lucia, opening the port for lumber in foreign vessels.

I now cover a Gazette with an ordinance of gen. Donzelot, continuing this port open for the reception of flour in foreign vessels until the first of September, rye flour until the first of November. Sugar and coffee cannot now be exported in foreign bottoms, many articles admitted by the last ordinance, cannot now be landed; the publishing of the ordinance may be useful to our commerce; there is but a short supply of flour here at present; yet the price cannot be quoted higher than 15 a 15 1/2 dollars per the cargo; the scarcity of cash, the high price, and now the prohibition to export sugar and coffee, keeps down the prices.

I am, with perfect esteem, your most obedient servant,

JOHN MITCHELL.

JOHN STEELE, Esq.

Collector, Philadelphia.

Honorable Record.—It is said a very large proportion of the veteran claimants of military pensions, under the late law of the United States, are of Massachusetts. Very probable. Of 283,137 men regulars and militia engaged in the glorious war of Independence, 83,162 were furnished by Massachusetts, making nearly three-tenths of the whole army. B. Cent.

EXTRAVAGANT PROFLOGACY.

In the great chamber of the ducal palace in Venice, where the portraits of the doges are placed, travellers are shown a vacant space between two portraits, bearing upon it this inscription.

British travellers, and travellers of the bonton, have something else to do, as they fly through Europe, besides examining into curious historical facts and anecdotes. An inquirer who wished to profit by his journey, however, in being shown this space, would, in all probability, have a laudable curiosity excited by the inscription; in which case he would be told that it sprung out of the discovery and defeat of the most monstrous project of inhumanity and murder that ever entered into the contemplation of the human heart. It was a conspiracy devised and carried on by the doge himself. Had ambition, or the augmentation of his own power been the object, it would not have been so very astonishing, nor perhaps altogether so detestable—but his motive was as low and little, as his intention was wicked and terrible.

In the year 1355, Marino Pallieri, doge of Venice, being then eighty years of age, was rash enough to marry a very young woman. Taking it into her head that she had been affronted by a young Venetian nobleman at a public ball, this lady complained bitterly of the supposed insult, to her husband. The old man, who had all the desire imaginable to please his wife, determined, in this matter at least, to give her ample satisfaction.

The delinquent was brought before the judges, and the crime was exaggerated with all the eloquence that money could purchase; but they viewed the affair with unprejudiced eyes, and pronounced a sentence no more than adequate to the offence. The doge was filled with extravagant rage, and finding that the body of the nobles took no share in his wrath, he entered into a conspiracy with the admiral of the arsenal, and some others who were discontented with the government on other accounts, and projected a scheme of the most atrocious kind, for vindicating his wife's honor. It was resolved by those desperadoes to massacre the whole grand council. Such a scene of bloodshed on account of one woman had not been imagined since the Trojan war.

The plot was conducted with more secrecy than could have been expected from a man who seems to have been deprived of reason as well as humanity.—Every thing was prepared; and the day previous to that which was fixed for the execution had arrived without any person, but those concerned in the conspiracy, having the least knowledge of the horrid design, when it was discovered in the same manner in which that against the king and parliament of England was brought to light in the reign of king James the first. Bertrand Bergame, one of the conspirators, being desirous to save Nicholas Lioni, a noble Venetian, from the general massacre, called on him, and admonished him, on no account to leave his house on the following day; for, if he did, he would certainly lose his life. Lioni pressed him to give some reason for this extraordinary advice; which the other obstinately refusing, Lioni ordered him to be seized, and confined; and sending for some of his friends of the senate, by means of promises and threats, they at length prevailed on the prisoner to discover the whole of the horrid mystery.

They sent for the avogador, the council of ten, and other high officers, by whom the prisoner was examined; after which orders were given for seizing the principal conspirators in their houses, and for summoning those of the nobility and citizens, on whose fidelity the council could rely. These measures could not be taken so secretly as not to alarm many, who found means to make their escape. A considerable number were arrested, among whom were two chiefs of the conspiracy, under the doge, and they being put to the question confessed the whole. It appeared that only a select body of the principal men had been privy to the real design; great numbers had been desired to be prepared with arms at a particular hour, when they would be employed in attacking certain enemies of the state, which were not named; they were desired to keep those orders a perfect secret, and were told that upon their fidelity and secrecy, their future fortunes depended. Those men did not know of each other, and had no suspicion that it was not a lawful enterprise for which they were thus engaged; they were therefore set at liberty; but all the chiefs of the plot gave the fullest evidence against the doge. It was proved that the whole scheme had been formed by his direction, and supported by his influence. After the principal conspirators were tried and executed, the council of ten, next proceeded to the trial of the doge himself. They desired that twenty senators, of the highest reputation might assist upon this solemn occasion, and that two relations of the Faliero family, one of whom was a member of the council of ten, and the other an avogador, might withdraw from the court.

The doge who had hitherto remained under a guard in his own apartments in the palace, was now brought before this tribunal of his own subjects. He was dressed in the robes of his office. It is thought that he intended to have denied the charge, and attempted a defence; but when he perceived the number and the nature of the proofs against him, overwhelmed with their force, he acknowledged his guilt, with many fruitless and abject intreaties for mercy.

That a man of eighty years of age should lose all firmness on such an occasion is not to be wondered at. That he should have been incited by a trifling offence to such an inhuman and such a deliberate plan of wickedness, is without example. He was sentenced to lose his head; and the sentence was executed in the place where the doges are generally crowned.

COMMUNICATED.

Abstract from the journal of the brig William, son of Salem, bound for Norfolk.

* At 4 p. m. Cape Henry bearing W. distant 4 leagues, pleasant weather, two small sail in sight; supposing them to be Pilot Boats, showed a signal from mast-head—being in want of a pilot, hove to for the same to come down—a number of sail in sight. During the intermission of the boats coming down, discovered something ahead supposed to be a wreck, sent my chief mate with four hands, who returned and reported it to be the Sea serpent—I then went and examined it, and such a scene I never witnessed—I believe it to be at least 150 feet in length, its mouth and head of an enormous size—After returning to the ship I bore off, in consequence of its enormous size, fearing the consequences that might result from its coming in contact with the vessel.
